Homeopathic Remedies

What do onions and hay fever have in common?

Have you ever sliced an onion and noticed that your eyes start to water? Or have you experienced a reaction similar to those suffering from hay fever. If you have, then you have experienced something behind homeopathic remedies.

NET Remedies are based on a proven combination of scientific research and more than 300 years of medicinal treatment. By acknowledging the relationship between body, stress, environmental toxicity, nutritional imbalance and structural integrity, a better health and well-being can be achieved.
Homeopathic remedies help activate your body’s natural healing abilities. We have selected the most essential remedies that have consistently proven to be helpful in restoring optimal mind-body health.

Homeopathy helps awaken the body and restore balance.

Homeopathic remedies are so diluted that there’s actually almost none of the original ingredients remaining. Only the ‘memory’ of their presence lingers in the solution you take.

NET Remedies formulas are prepared by starting with an ingredient that has been turned into liquid form. It is then diluted and shaken.

This diluting and shaking process is repeated many times, and the resulting fluid may contain less than 1 part per billion of the originally active substance! The formulas we use combine different potencies to better target your health problem.

Knowing which homeopathic remedy to use is an art based on nearly 200 years of experience with millions of people.

If you’ve ever taken a large, hard-to-swallow pill, you may wonder how such a minute amount could make a difference in your body. But consider the hormone created by your thyroid gland.

Its concentration in your blood is around 1 part in 10 billion. Yet, that’s enough to regulate the metabolism of your entire body!

We’ve identified the specific homeopathic remedies necessary to complement the stress-reduction work we do with NET, as well as support your body physically. These remedies help you heal and make desired changes more lasting.

By targeting the involved acupuncture meridians and stimulating energy pathways, the remedies gently ‘wake up’ your body. Naturally, they are non-habit forming and free of sugar, yeast and sodium.

NET Remedies are safe and effective for just about everyone. Plus, they are compatible with vitamins, supplements, herbs and even prescription medicines.

Some people find that hot, spicy foods produce feverish symptoms. Native-Americans often treat fevers with chili peppers! A classic homeopathic approach.
